Combs Endorses Breckinridge In Lt. Governor's Contest

By CAROLE M. MARTIN
United Press International

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge, bolstered by support from Gov. Bert Combs and two major reform groups, was to open a Jefferson County headquarters here today for his campaign for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Breckinridge, who seeks the nomination as a non-factional candidate, last weekend won the endorsement of the Carter County Citizens League for Good Government, Inc., and northern Kentucky's Committee of 500. He also received a telegram from Combs which said his election would benefit Kentucky.

The governor's telegram, read at the conclusion of a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner at Lexington Saturday night, said in part:

"There is a combination of political forces at work in Kentucky today which would tolerate misuse of public funds and let down the barriers against crime. Your election as lieutenant governor would thwart the desires of this political combination and help to beat the bosses. I wish you success."

First Word from Combs

The telegram was the first open indication of Combs' support for the attorney general's candidacy.

Edward Ned Breathitt, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate backed by Combs administration, consistently has held that he is concerned only with the gubernatorial race and has not named a slate to run with him.

Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman, elected on a reform ticket backed by the Committee of 500 two years ago, headed a group of speakers for the Breckinridge dinner at Lexington and announced the committee's endorsement of the attorney general.

Ratterman praised Breckinridge for his assistance in the drive to wipe out vice and corruption in northern Kentucky. He said that besides the legal help, the attorney general acted as liaison between the sheriff's office and the state government agencies.

The backing of the Carter County citizens group was announced at the dinner by Charles Hatchett, chairman of the county's education board. He said Breckinridge lent both "legal and moral help" in the league's activities to remove politics and wrong-doing from the school system operation.

Watchdog Committee Urged

More than 400 persons heard Breckinridge urge the creation of a bipartisan "watchdog committee" to review and help reorganize state government.

He termed the nuclear energy industry "the unsettled, unlocated industry of the future," and said that in this field Kentucky was starting in first place and "need not climb from the bottom" in this field.

Other speakers at the dinner included James Neal Jr., first executive director of the newly named Kentucky Atomic Energy and Space Authority, and Tom Raab, former state legislator from Jefferson County.

Telegrams of support also were received from Mayor Willie DeWahare, of Hazard, and the Rev. James W. Angell, of the Second Presbyterian Church of Lexington. Breckinridge was to speak this afternoon in the Columbia Building at headquarters here, after a morning campaign trip to Winchester.

Murderer Of Ski Star Is Apprehended

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Thomas Lee Bean, a stringy, tousle-haired teenager who has confessed to the strangulation of British ski star Sonja Henie, was to be arraigned on a murder charge today.

The lean, dark, 18-year-old was arrested Saturday after a search of the apartment of the 24-year-old victim was found in a pawn shop, and the pawn ticket was traced to Bean.

After police questioning, he admitted strangling the blonde divorcee with a piece of twine and methodically dismembering her body—cutting off her head, severing a foot, and cutting out her heart. It was described by police as "the worst murder in Reno history."

It was the sight of women's underwear hanging on a clothesline, Bean told police, that determined his victim. He said he was prowling Miss Henie's neighborhood when he saw the underthings. He entered through an unlocked rear door and strangled the attractive skier when she awoke.

Bean reenacted the crime after his confession Saturday night. He said he spent five and a half hours in the modest apartment of his victim after strangling her and sexually assaulting her body.

The dismembered body of the onetime Olympic skier was found April 5. Her torso, three knives sticking out of its back, was stuffed in a hope chest.

The youngster was born on his father's birthday.

Breathitt Talks At Opening Of Headquarters

A large crowd attended the opening Saturday of the Breathitt for Governor headquarters, with Ned Breathitt being present and making a short talk to his supporters.

Breathitt arrived at Kyle Field at 2:30 and moved from the airport to the headquarters in a motorcade.

The headquarters was filled and a large crowd gathered on the sidewalk as well as elsewhere. He left Murray about 4:30 by plane for Hopkinsville.

NED BREATHITT

Breathitt told those at the headquarters, located on Main street next to the Day and Nite Lunch, that "truth is the central issue of this campaign."

He told the crowd that he supported the Foundation Program for education and the constitutional amendment which made the Foundation possible.

"I sponsored and introduced, along with other friends of education, the bill which established the Foundation Program and made possible its ultimate financing," Breathitt said.

"My opponent opposed the constitutional amendment which made possible the Foundation program. My opponent sought to make our educators and our schools the pawns of selfish politics. My opponent in 1956, I answer with truth, I demand today that my opponent treat his mistakes and apologize to the people of Kentucky for his deceptions," he concluded.

Breathitt had his picture made holding the bill which made the Foundation possible, with his name as one of the sponsors underscored. During the time that the headquarters was open Mrs. Irene Lindsey and Mrs. Elizabeth Sluskey served coffee and cookies. The two are the permanent secretaries for the headquarters.

Breathitt said he was opposed to firing regents, trustees and board members for political revenge.

"To this campaign of calculated untruth, I answer with truth, I demand today that my opponent treat his mistakes and apologize to the people of Kentucky for his deceptions," he concluded.

Murray Hi Teachers Receive Cakes Friday

Each faculty member of the Murray City School System received a large homemade cake Friday from the Parent-Teacher Association in recognition of Teacher Appreciation Day.

The beautiful array of cakes was arranged in the office for distribution at the close of school, marking also the beginning of spring vacation for the city school system.

The faculty and administration expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Ed Frank Kirk, P-TA president, her executive board and members for the gifts.

Two Receive Superior In Vocal Solos

Two Murray High School students, Susan Nance and Susan Evans received superior ratings in vocal solos in the Murray State College Music Contest-Festival Saturday.

Susan Nance, a seventh grader, and Susan Evans, a senior, both won superior in girls' high voice division. Mrs. John Bowker is vocal instructor at Murray High.

College High Musicians Get Top Ratings

Murray College High musicians received Superior and Excellent ratings at the Murray Division of the State Music Festival-Contest held at Murray State College Friday and Saturday, April 12-13.

Shirley Thomas, College High Freshman, rated superior as a soprano soloist. Shirley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Thomas, Cadiz Highway, and a private voice student of Mrs. Joan Bowker, is a member of the mixed chorus and girls' club at College High.

The College High Orchestra received a top rating of Superior and the College High Band was awarded a standing of Excellent.

All except one College High instrumentalist are members of both the thirty-piece orchestra and the twenty-nine piece band. Thirteen of these students play stringed instruments in the orchestra and wind or percussion in the band.

State Planes Being Used Says Chandler

VERSAILLES, Ky. (UPI) — Former Gov. A. B. Chandler charged today that Gov. Bert Combs and other state employees and their friends are "flying all over Kentucky and nation in state-owned airplanes at great expense to the taxpayers."

Chandler claimed that many of the flights "are not on official state business." He added that flight logs will show such destinations as Las Vegas, Florida and winter resorts.

He also declared the state planes were used to "ferry hatchet-men to almost every Kentucky county to coerce state employees to buy $25 tickets to a Louisville fun fest."

This was a reference to the April 6 "Bucks for Breathitt" rally at the State Fair and Exposition Center, Louisville.

Chandler said the Combs administration has "12 or 14 expensive airplanes" and said the pilots and passengers carry all kinds of state credit cards.

"A good example of the cost of flying, frolicking and partying around in these state-owned aircraft is the payment of $31,081.88 voucher No. 8049, for inspection and additional equipment on one plane," the statement continued.

He said, "In December (1962) a state-owned Beechcraft E-182N-23-J, was flown to Tulsa, Okla., by state pilot G. C. Lennox for 'renovation.' This airplane was returned to Kentucky in February.

"On Feb. 8," the statement added, "the state treasurer issued a check for $31,081.88 to the Spartan Aircraft to pay for the repairs and additional equipment, including radar, new propellers and de-icers."

"I understand this is the airplane that Gov. Combs uses for all his trips... official, semi-official, and pleasure trips... in Kentucky and to Florida and elsewhere."

Chandler scheduled a speech tonight (6:30 p.m. EST) at a meeting of the Allied Medical Services at Louisville. The former governor plans to campaign in four of the seven state congressional districts this week.

MATHIS SIGNS

BARBOURVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Union College has signed 6-foot-5-inch center Billy Mathis of Oldham County to a basketball scholarship, coach Pete Moore announced today.

Frank Ryan Not To Run; Macon Blankenship Completes Roster

With last Saturday as the final filing date for local offices, the ballot will not present a great problem to local voters, since all City Council seats are unopposed and the position of Circuit Court Clerk is unopposed.

The only council member not filing for re-election is Frank Ryan. Macon Blankenship has filed for this position in Ward B.

Present councilmen in Ward A are Charles Mason Baker, Prentice Lassiter, Jack Belote, P. W. Ordway, Haron B. West, and Joe Dick. Present councilmen in Ward B are Richard Tuck, James Rudy Albritton, Roy C. Starks, Leonard Vaughn, Frank Lancaster, and Frank Ryan. Blankenship will replace Ryan in Ward B.

Blankenship has been employed at the Murray Manufacturing Company for over fifteen years, serving as Safety Director for eleven years. For the past two years he has been Employment Manager. He is married to the former Jean Darnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Darnell.

The couple has two children, Beth and Mark and make their home on Sunset Boulevard.

James Blacklock, who is the present Circuit Court Clerk, will be unopposed in the May primary.

Murray and Calloway County voters will cast votes also for governor and Lt. Governor with Ned Breathitt and A. B. Chandler the apparent leading Democratic candidates. Mary Louise Poust is also seeking the office, as well as Wilton B. Cunniff of Covington. Republican candidates are Louis B. Nunn of Glasgow and Jesse N. R. Cecil, Louisville.

Harry Lee Waterfield, unsuccessful in his bid for the governor's office four years ago, is Chandler's running mate for Lt. Governor. John B. Breckinridge of Lexington is not attached to either principal gubernatorial candidate at this time. Dr. Harrison Collier of Neon also seeks the office as well as a Republican H. Bemis Lawrence of Louisville.

Local voters will choose between Charlie Lassiter, incumbent and Joe Hal Spann, who seek the office of State Representative from Calloway and Trigg County.

Owen Billington is seeking the post formerly held by George E. Overbey, as senator of the newly created 31st Senatorial District composed of Calloway, Trigg and Christian counties.

He is opposed by Charles J. White, Cadiz attorney.

Final Listing

Here is the final listing of candidates for statewide office:

Governor, Democrats — A. B. Chandler, Versailles; Wilton B. Cunniff, Covington; Mary Louise Poust, Shelbyville; Edward T. Breathitt, Hopkinsville; Republicans — Louis B. Nunn, Glasgow; Jesse N. R. Cecil, Louisville.

No Cure For Pitcher Ails Like The Pinstripes Of Those Yanks

By FRED DOWN

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
There's no cure for what ails a pitcher like those New York Yankee pinstripes.

The story has been told over and over again but it looks like there's a new example in Stan Williams, the 6-foot, 4-inch, 230-pound right-hander who walked home the San Francisco Giants' winning run in their 1962 playoff finale with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was an experience that could have made the 26-year old Williams a couch case. Instead it made him a Yankee. Because the Yankees happily acquired the big fireballer in a winter deal that sent Bill Skowron to the Dodgers and caused New York Yankee Manager Ralph Houk to predict that Williams would be the world champions' fourth starting pitcher.

Williams made his American League debut for the Yankees Sunday—his first real competitive appearance since that fateful walk last October—and breezed to a 5-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. For those who believe in omens is the fact that the win also gave the Yankees sole possession of first place.

The Cleveland Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers, 6-0, the Washington Senators beat the Boston Red Sox, 7-6, and the Kansas City Athletics edged the Minnesota Twins, 5-4, in other games. The Chicago White Sox and Angels were rained out—the first rainout in Los Angeles big league history.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Cincinnati Reds, 1-0, the Chicago Cubs topped the San Francisco Giants,

3-1, the Houston Colts beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, the Milwaukee Braves shut out the New York Mets, 1-0, and the Philadelphia Phillies swept a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3 and 5-4.

Williams pitched a five-hitter, struck out eight, and allowed only three walks. Two walks by Chuck Estrada and singles by Johnny Blanchard and Elston Howard gave the Yankees two runs in the first inning and they added three more in the third with the help of Clete Boyer's two-run single. Boog Powell and Jerry Adair tripled in succession to produce the Orioles' run.

Rookie Vic Davallo's two-run homer and the seven-hit pitching of Jim Grant and Jerry Walker enabled the Indians to deal Detroit's Jim Bunning his second defeat. Grant allowed only two hits and struck out five before leaving the game when struck on the pitching arm by a batted ball. Walker yielded five hits the rest of the way to pick up his first win.

Hinton Faces Senators
Chuck Hinton had a triple, double and two singles to lead an 11-hit Washington attack on six Boston pitchers. Carl Boudin was the winning pitcher although Ron Kline struck out five and pitched two-hit ball over the last four innings for the Senators. Carl Yastrzemski had four hits and Bob Tilton homered for the Red Sox.

Hinton Faces Senators
Chuck Hinton had a triple, double and two singles to lead an 11-hit Washington attack on six Boston pitchers. Carl Boudin was the winning pitcher although Ron Kline struck out five and pitched two-hit ball over the last four innings for the Senators. Carl Yastrzemski had four hits and Bob Tilton homered for the Red Sox.

The Cleveland Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers, 6-0, the Washington Senators beat the Boston Red Sox, 7-6, and the Kansas City Athletics edged the Minnesota Twins, 5-4, in other games. The Chicago White Sox and Angels were rained out—the first rainout in Los Angeles big league history.

In the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Cincinnati Reds, 1-0, the Chicago Cubs topped the San Francisco Giants,

Demeter's Batting Average Chief Reason For His Title

By FRED DOWN

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
You've only to look at Don Demeter's .474 batting average to understand why Manager Gene Mauch of the Philadelphia Phillies calls him "Big D."

Big D is a sort of Jack of all trades with the Phillies but fortunately no matter where he plays he's become a master of the bat. And he's the most important reason why the Phillies were the hottest team in the National League over the second half of the 1962 season and today are in a three-way tie for first place with the San Francisco Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Demeter owes his development as a hitter directly to Mauch. Don used to be a free swinger who tried to pull every pitch. On Mauch's advice, he started to "hit with the pitch" last year and he wound up the season with a .397 average, 29 homers and 107 runs batted in.

Stages One-Man Show
Demeter staged virtually a one-man show in St. Louis Sunday when he collected six hits in nine at-bats and drove in three runs as the Phillies downed the Cardinals, 4-3 in 10 innings, and 5-4. Chief beneficiary of Demeter's blasting was relief ace Jack Baldschun, who received credit for both victories although he worked a total of only 2 1/2 innings.

The Chicago Cubs snapped the San Francisco Giants' four-game winning streak, 3-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates shaded the Cincinnati Reds, 1-0, the Houston Colts defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, and the Milwaukee Braves topped the New York Mets, 1-0, in 10 innings in other NL games.

In the American League, the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles, 5-1, the Cleveland Indians scored a 6-0 victory the Detroit Tigers, the Washington Senators edged out the Boston Red Sox, 7-6, and the Kansas City Athletics beat the Minnesota Twins, 5-4.

Plays Three Positions

Demeter singled the winning run to third base in the 10th inning of Sunday's first game. Then he homered in the eighth inning to tie the nightcap and singled home the decisive run in the ninth. During the afternoon he also played first base, left field and center field.

Ron Santo scored one run on a double by Ernie Banks and drove in another with a solo homer to help the Cubs' Larry Jackson gained his first win of the season. Willie McCovey doubled home the only run for the Giants, who had won their first four games.

Al McBean yielded 10 hits but struck out five and walked only one in out-pitching the Reds' Joey Jay, who dropped his second straight decision. A walk to Bob Skinner and singles by Smokey Burgess, Donn Clendenon and Bill Virdon produced the game's only run in the fourth inning.

Colts Kayo Koufax
The Colts kayoed strikeout king Sandy Koufax in 5 1/2 innings and then hung on for the victory with Don McMahon shutting out the Dodgers on one hit for the last 1/2 inning. Pete Runnels and Howie Goswami had two hits each for the Colts and Frank Howard and Dick Trucsek had three each for the Dodgers.

Bob Hendley pitched a four-hitter against the Mets and finally won out in the 10th when the Braves scored on a walk to Lee Maye, Hendley's sacrifice and a single by Ty Cline. Roger Craig, a 24-game loser in 1962, allowed only seven hits but suffered his second straight loss.

CHAPTER 26
ON THURSDAY, the thirtieth of June, I awakened as usual in the black pearl light of the dawn, and that early now in the lap of midsummer.

I turned my head to Mary, sleeping and smiling on my right, and stroked the lovely line from ear to shoulder. She sighed as she always does, a deep, gathered breath and a low release of luxury.

Some people resent awakening, but not Mary. She comes to a day with expectancy that it will be good.

Her eyes opened, hazed with sleep. "Already?" she asked, and she glanced at the window to see how near the day had come.

"I bring you tidings of great joy, my flying squirrel."

"Crazy."

"Have I ever lied to you?"

"Maybe."

"Are you awake enough to hear the tidings of great joy?"

Her eyes were clear and wakeful now. "Tell me."

"Do you know a man of Elysian extraction named Marullo?"

"Crazy—you're being silly."

"You will find it so. Said Marullo has gone from here for a time."

"Where?"

"He didn't say."

"When will he be back?"

"Stop confusing me. He didn't say that either. What he did say was that he should take his car and go on a happy trip over the holiday."

"You're joking me."

"I'll tell a lie that would make you sad?"

"But why?"

"That I can't tell you. What I can swear to is that a car with a tank full of gasoline awaits your highness's pleasure."

"But where shall we go?"

"That, my lovely insect-wife is what you are going to decide, and take all day today, tomorrow, and Saturday to plan it."

"But can we afford it or something?"

"Can or not, we will. I have a secret purse."

"Silly. I know your purse. I can't imagine him lending his car."

"Neither can I, but he did. Perhaps he wants us to love him."

"I'll have to do a thousand things."

"I know you will." I could see her mind plowing into the possibilities like a bulldozer. I knew I had lost her attention and probably couldn't get it back, and that was good.

At breakfast before my second cup of coffee she had picked up and discarded half the pleasure areas of eastern America. Poor darling hadn't had much fun these last few years.

I said, "Chloe, I know I'm going to have trouble getting your attention. A very important investment is offered. I want some more of the lovely. The first is doing well."

"Does Mr. Baker know about it?"

"His idea."

"Then take it. You sign a check."

"Don't you want to know how much? What the investment is? The probable return and all that?"

"I wouldn't understand it."

"No wonder they call you the Vixen of Wall Street. That ice-cold, diamond-sharp business mind—it's frightening."

"We're going a trip, she said. 'We're going a trip for two days.'

And how the hell could a man not love her, not adore her? 'Who is Mary—what is she?' I sang and collected the empty milk bottles and went to work.

I felt the need to catch up with Joey Morphy but I must have been a moment late or his moment early. He was entering the coffee shop when I followed him in and took the stool beside him. "You got into this habit, Joey?"

"Hi, Mr. Hawley. It's pretty good coffee."

"How are things, Morphy?"

"Just the same, only worse."

"Want to trade jobs?"

"I would, just before a long weekend."

"This a big one for you?"

"With the Fourth on Monday and nice weather, you kidding? And what makes it worse, the boss feels the need of rest and recreation in the mountains."

"Mr. Baker? I want to see him."

"Well, try to catch him if you can."

WE crossed the street together and went into the alley. "You sound lousy, Joey."

"I am. I get pretty tired of other people's money." He nudged a gum wrapper into the lock, went in, saying, "See you."

I had nothing to say to my forces on the shelves that morning except "Good morning gentlemen—at ease." At a few moments before nine, I was out front sweeping the sidewalk.

Mr. Baker is so regular you can hear him tick. Eight fifty-nine — he was at the glass doors, where I, with broom at carry arms, intercepted him. "Mr. Baker, I want to talk to you."

"Morning, Ethan. Can you wait a minute? Come on in."

I followed him, and it was just as Joey said. Like a religious ceremony. They practically stood at attention as he came and clicked and buzzed from the great steel safe door. Then Joey dialed the mystic numbers and turned the wheel that drew the bolts. The holy of holies swung stately open and Mr. Baker took the suit of the assembled money.

Mr. Baker turned. "Now, Ethan, what can I do for you?"

I said softly, "I want to talk to you privately, and I can't leave the store."

"If I get a moment I'll drop over. Any word about Danny Taylor?"

"Not yet."

"I'll try to get over."

"Thank you, sir."

He came in less than an hour, and stood about until the present customers were gone.

"Now—what is it, Ethan?"

"I'll lay it out face up, Mr. Baker. Marullo's in trouble."

He moved close to me. "What kind of trouble?"

"I don't know exactly, sir. I think it might be illegal entry."

"How do you know?"

"He told me—not in so many words. You know how he is."

I could almost see his mind leaping about, picking up pieces and fitting them together. "Go on," he said. "That's deportation."

"I'm afraid so. He's been good to me, Mr. Baker. I wouldn't do anything to hurt him."

"You owe yourself something, Ethan. What was his proposition?"

"It's not merely a proposition. But I gathered that if I had a quick five thousand in cash, I could own the store."

"That sounds as if he's going to run for it—but you don't know that."

"I don't know anything really."

"So there's no chance of a collusion charge. He didn't tell you anything specific."

"No, sir."

His quick eye went over the store and valued it. "If you are right in your assumption you're in a good bargaining position."

"You know I don't favor under-the-table deals. Maybe I could talk to him."

"He's out of town."

"When will he be back?"

"I don't know, sir. Remember, it's only my impression he might drop in, and if I had cash, he might make a deal."

"If it's true and he's a crook, you could be taken—taken to the cleaners"—he was warning to Ethan. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Woodmen Circle Hears Convention Reports At Meet

The State Convention in Paducah last week was the main topic of the reports and discussions at the dinner meeting of the Woodmen Circle Thursday evening at 6:00 at the Murray Woman's Club House.

For her efficient work as state treasurer for the past four years and as toastmistress at the state convention banquet, and for the recognition she brought to the group by winning the place as National Delegate to represent Kentucky at the National Convention in Chicago in August, the Murray Grove presented a special gift of love and appreciation to its president, Mrs. Loretta Jorg.

Mrs. Hazel Tritt, newly elected state vice president, and vice president of the local grove, made the presentation.

Mrs. Katie Overcast, grove treasurer, received the birthday award. During the business the Grove voted to give a $25 donation to the Woodmen Circle Home in Sherman, Texas. This home is maintained for Aged Woodmen Circle members and orphans who need a home.

Since the home was established in 1930, seventy-eight children have been reared and educated in the home and 185 adult members have been cared for in the home. Three of these adult members were from this section of Kentucky. Mrs. Mattie Gorrell from Mayfield lived in the home from 1931 until her death in December 1955. Mrs. Mattie Tooke of Hopkinsville went to the home in 1938 and lived there until she died in 1960. Mrs. Alice Easter, Fulton, was there from July 1952 until her death October 1953.

In the home at the present time there are 54 women, one man and one child. The child is Jean Wooley from Caneyville, Ky. She entered the home when she was six years old. She now is 16 and a senior in high school.

Mrs. B. Wall Melugin will be hostess to the Jesse Houston Service Club for the April meeting.

Thursday evening meeting adjourned at 7:20 to give members time to attend the Pre-Easter church services.

Dear Abby..

Mixed - Up Marital Mess!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I was 16, I married George just to get away from home. He was old enough to be my father and it didn't work out. George left me, but I didn't care. We were never divorced. Then I met Paul. I never knew I could love a man so much. He moved in with me and we were so happy! Then he confessed that he was married and had five children. He is separated from his wife and is fighting to get custody of his children. When I found this out, I told him not to fight so hard. I love Paul, but at my age (23) I don't want to raise five children. Paul says if I really loved him I'd take the children. Maybe I don't love him. I'm all mixed up. Can you help me?

MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: You are still George's wife. And Paul is also still married. You might love Paul, but not enough. First, straighten out your own marital mess. You need Paul and his five children like a drowning man needs water.

DEAR ABBY: We don't know if we are going crazy or if 25,000 other people are, but we just read where an organization is starting a movement to force everyone to DRESS UP their animals! They say it is "immoral" for animals to go around naked in public and, besides, it "confuses" our youngsters. We all had a good laugh over this. Can you picture a farmer getting up at 3

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-three years ago I married a fine man, whose wife had died and left him with a 12-year old daughter. I tried hard to be a good mother, but she never cared for me. Yesterday, in my absence, she came into my home and hung a large tinted picture of her mother in our bedroom. When I saw it I told my husband that if he wanted that picture anywhere else in our home I did not mind, but I took it down and refused to have it in our bedroom. His daughter is

Kentucky Bids for Tourists At Nation's Travel Shows

AT A RECENT travel show in St. Louis, Kentucky's pretty hostess invites prospective tourists to Explore Kentucky.

KENTUCKY'S 1963 TRAVEL DISPLAY

TO ATTRACT vacationers to Kentucky, the State Department of Public Information is taking its new and inviting Explore Kentucky exhibit to eight travel shows around the country this spring. Included in the display are a model of Cumberland Falls complete with running water (top left); a relief map of the state showing location of all State and Federal recreation areas; panoramic color transparencies of Mammoth Cave, State Park beaches, lodges, and other attractions; and plenty of take-home literature. The recent show in St. Louis attracted some 110,000 persons. Improved camping facilities and Kentucky's nine new State Park lodges drew favorable comments from visitors.

PROSPECTIVE VISITORS get literature picturing Kentucky attractions. Most frequent question asked is "Where's a good vacation spot for my family?"

KENTUCKY'S STATE PARKS and shrines and national parks are easily spotted on this relief map of the state. Forest preserves, rivers and lakes are also shown. Major bodies of water are accentuated by water flowing under the map face.

CONGRATULATIONS—W. Averell Harriman gets a congratulatory kiss from his wife in Washington on taking oath as undersecretary of State for Political Affairs.
